SPARX has positioned the return of profits to shareholders as one of the most important tasks of our business management, while pursuing sustainable growth and enhancing corporate value over the mid-to-long term. We decide shareholder return by comprehensively examining the business performance, financial condition and return ratio, as well as the timing and method, among others, while considering stability and continuity of our company from a mid- to long-term perspective.

As announced in the Consolidated Financial Results for the Fiscal Year Ended March 31, 2026 (Japanese GAAP) dated May 7, 2026, the Company has decided to commence the payment of interim dividends from the current fiscal year in order to provide more opportunities to return profits to shareholders. Accordingly, the Company has determined the interim dividend for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2027 to be ¥55.00 per share, in line with the most recent forecast.

Looking ahead, we will continue to strive to expand stable and continuous shareholder returns, achieve sustainable growth, and increase corporate value over the mid-to-long term based on the steady growth of Base Earnings(*), one of the most important management indicators.

(*) SPARX identifies “Base Earnings” as the most important financial indicator. The term “Base Earnings” indicates the sustained and stable fundamental profitability of the company.

Base Earnings = Management Fee(After the deduction of commission paid)-Ordinary Expenses

Ordinary Expenses is calculated by deducting the sum of (1) Commissions paid, (2) Bonuses (including allowance for bonuses, mandatory welfare expenses related to bonuses, and ESOP expenses) and (3) Severance payments for officers and employees, from the total operating and general administrative expenses.

Operating Profit for financial accounting purposes includes one-off/ additional performance fees, which can be affected by trends of the equity market and progress of real assets investment business. For this reason, we regard Base Earnings, which indicates the sustained and stable fundamental profitability, as one of the most important financial indicators.
