Japan Lifeline Receives Recognition of 2021 Certified Health and Productivity Management Organization (Large Enterprise Category)

Japan Lifeline Co., Ltd. announced today that it was certified by the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry and the Nippon Kenko Kaigi under the large enterprise category of the 2021 Certified Health and Productivity Management Organization Recognition Program.

The Certified Health and Productivity Management Organization Recognition Program is a system to recognize enterprises engaging in initiatives for promoting health-conscious activities led by the Nippon Kenko Kaigi. This program has been conducted to develop an environment in which the enterprises engaging in efforts to advance health and productivity management are able to gain enhanced social recognition.

Japan Lifeline believes that employees and their families should stay healthy and full of vitality both physically and mentally in order to realize its management philosophy: contributing to the realization of a healthy society through the latest optimal medical device technologies. Japan Lifeline has thus far implemented various health-promoting initiatives to reduce long working hours and to promote work-life balance. In addition, it has been accelerating its initiatives with the JLL Health Declaration since 2020.

Japan Lifeline will continue to promote the development of an environment to improve the health of its employees, etc., and engage in efforts for health and productivity management.
