2. Reason for the revision

The Company recognizes the importance of returning profits to shareholders as a key management issue. While retaining necessary funds on hand for the operation of existing businesses and investments for growth, the Company aims to return excess retained earnings to shareholders. The Company's policy for the allocation of management resources includes shareholder returns through continuous semi-annual dividend payouts and flexible share buybacks.

Under this policy, after comprehensively considering the consolidated business performance and business developments for the current fiscal year, the Company has decided to return profits through a special dividend for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2025, and to revise its year-end dividend forecast to a total of 55 yen per share, consisting of an ordinary dividend of 25 yen per share and a special dividend of 30 yen per share. As a result, the total dividend per share will be 80 yen, including the interim dividend of 25 yen per share which was paid at the end of the second quarter, last year.
