Notice of Publication of Sponsored Research Report

We are pleased to announce that we have published a sponsored research report to facilitate communication with investors and to deepen their understanding of our company.

This research report has been prepared by Mr. Yosuke Tomimatsu, a highly rated IT sector analyst who held positions at Nomura, Bank of America and Mizuho. This research report does not intend to make any recommendation on the Company's stock, but rather to provide investors with a clear explanation of the Company's business model, performance trends, and medium- to long-term strategy, which have already been publicly announced. Each report can be accessed by clicking on the link below.
