Supplementary Explanation Material Regarding the Basic Agreement with HIKARI TSUSHIN, INC.

Remixpoint, inc. (the "Company") hereby provides the following supplementary explanation to avoid any misunderstanding regarding the purpose of the transaction and its views on the stock acquisition rights. This supplement takes into account the feedback received from shareholders and investors concerning the basic agreement for the change in a subsidiary (share transfer) and the capital and business alliance (hereinafter, the "Basic Agreement") concluded with HIKARI TSUSHIN, INC. (hereinafter, including its group companies, the "Hikari Tsushin Group") announced on August 14, 2026.

1. Purpose of the basic agreement

This transaction is an initiative to restructure the Group's business portfolio, optimize the allocation of management resources, and improve capital efficiency.

For the Energy Business, by transitioning to a structure that utilizes the Hikari Tsushin Group's management resources, sales capabilities, and financial strength, the Company aims to further strengthen its business foundation. At the same time, the Company will focus its management resources on growth areas such as the battery storage business, aiming to enhance medium- to long-term corporate value.

2. Energy business after the 51% transfer

Following the share transfer scheduled for October 1, 2026, the Hikari Tsushin Group will take the lead in management and business operations for the company succeeding our Energy Business (hereinafter, the "Target Company"). We also plan a framework in which the funds necessary for business operations will be provided by the Hikari Tsushin Group.

This will significantly reduce the financial burden related to working capital for the Energy Business at the Company. We believe that by utilizing the resulting financial flexibility, we will be able to focus management resources on growth areas such as the battery storage business while improving the capital efficiency of the entire Group. Through this restructuring of the business portfolio, this transaction aims to enhance the Group's financial base and capacity for growth investments, thereby improving corporate value over the medium to long term.

Furthermore, as long as the Company holds 49% of the Target Company's shares after the share transfer, an amount equivalent to the Company's equity interest in the Target Company's profit or loss will be reflected in the Company's consolidated financial results as investment profit or loss under the equity method.

3. Collaboration in the battery storage business with the Hikari Tsushin Group

We aim to expand the battery storage business, including grid-scale batteries, by combining the Company's knowledge of battery storage and electricity markets, as well as project development and operational know-how, with the Hikari Tsushin Group's broad customer base, sales capabilities, and management resources. The Company positions this collaboration as one of the key initiatives in its future growth strategy.

4. Concept regarding stock acquisition rights

The stock acquisition rights are expected to be used as an incentive for business results to promote the sales of grid-scale batteries.

By creating a mechanism linked to business results such as sales performance in the grid-scale battery business, we intend to link the creation of business results with incentives, aligning the enhancement of our corporate value with the interests of stakeholders.

Specific details regarding the stock acquisition rights have not been determined at this time. We will make decisions after undergoing the necessary procedures and will announce them in a timely and appropriate manner if any matters requiring disclosure arise.

5. Supplementary information for shareholders and investors

- Purpose of the Basic Agreement

  Aims to restructure the business portfolio, optimize the allocation of management resources, and improve capital efficiency, seeking to enhance medium- to long-term corporate value.

- Energy Business

  After the 51% transfer, the Hikari Tsushin Group will take the lead in management and business operations, with a framework planned to provide the necessary funds for operations. This will reduce the Company's financial burden and allow for the focused allocation of management resources.

- Battery Storage Business

  Through collaboration with the Hikari Tsushin Group, the Company aims to expand growth areas, including grid-scale batteries.

- Purpose of Stock Acquisition Rights

  Expected to be used as an incentive for business results to promote the sales of grid-scale batteries.

6. Future outlook

If matters requiring disclosure regarding specific transaction terms under this Basic Agreement, details of the collaboration in the battery storage business, and specific issuance terms of the stock acquisition rights are formally decided, we will announce them promptly. The Company will continue to proceed with this transaction in a manner that contributes to the enhancement of corporate value and shareholder value over the medium to long term, while giving due consideration to the impact on existing shareholders.

[Note] Any matters yet to be determined described in this material are based on the Company's assumptions or considerations at this time and are not confirmed facts. We will disclose them promptly after they are formally decided through future discussions and necessary institutional decisions by the Company.
