Notice Regarding Approval of Market Segment Transfer to Tokyo Stock Exchange Standard Market and Withdrawal of Plan to Achieve Compliance with Prime Market Listing Maintenance Standards

Gunosy Inc. (hereinafter "the Company") has today received approval from Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. (hereinafter "TSE") for the transfer of its market segment to the TSE Standard Market. Accordingly, the Company hereby announces that, effective May 29, 2026, the market segment of the Company's shares will be changed from the TSE Prime Market to the TSE Standard Market.

In connection with the approval of this market segment transfer, the Company also announces that it has decided to withdraw, as of today, the "Plan to Achieve Compliance with Listing Maintenance Standards (Entry into Improvement Period)" published on July 14, 2025, for the purpose of satisfying the listing maintenance standards of the Prime Market.

Even after the transition to the Standard Market, the Company will continue to regard sustainable growth and the enhancement of corporate value over the medium to long term as its highest priority, and will work to strengthen its earning power.Specifically, through the operation of a business portfolio comprising three domains — the Core Cash domain, the C/F Accumulation-type M&A domain, and the High-Growth Options domain — the Company will pursue the generation of stable cash flows and improvement of capital efficiency, while promoting management with a strong awareness of the cost of capital. In addition, the Company will strengthen dialogue with shareholders and investors through enhanced IR activities and information disclosure, and will work to implement stable shareholder returns and further strengthen corporate governance. By steadily advancing these initiatives, the Company aims to achieve the sustained enhancement of shareholder value.

The Company will continue to make every effort to deepen the understanding of shareholders and investors through proactive public relations and IR activities, and respectfully requests your continued support and guidance.
