Komori Corporation Announces the Receipt of Global Orders of Banknote and Security Printing Equipment

Komori Corporation (“Komori”) is extremely pleased to announce the receipt of multiple large-scale orders from 10 countries as follows.

1. Overview
   - Main purchasers: Japan/National Printing Bureau, Bangladesh/SPCBL (Security Printing Corporation (Bangladesh) Ltd.), Canada/CBN (Canadian Bank Note Company, Limited), India/SPMCIL (Security Printing and Minting Corporation of India Limited), Viet Nam/NBPP (National Banknote Printing Plant), South Africa/SABN (South African Bank Note Company), and other 4 countries.
   - Orders received: Multiple banknote and security printing equipment including offset presses, intaglio presses, numbering presses and combination multi-process numbering & varnishing presses.
   - Order amount: Approx JPY 20 billion for the security press business category including the above orders from April 2023 to June 2024.

2. Outlook

In addition to the manufacturing of offset printing presses, which are our main manufacturing machines, Komori has been producing banknote printing equipment since 1958. For the overseas market, we have delivered banknote printing equipment to BRB, a subsidiary of the Reserve Bank of India in the 1990s. Since 2010, we have been working on the global security printing press business in earnest as part of new business development. We have successfully installed banknote printing equipment to the world's largest private security printing company De La Rue in the UK, the fully integrated banknote printing company Crane Currency in the US, Banque de France and Banca d’Italia as the EURO banknote printer. We have steadily increased the supply of banknote printing equipment. In addition, in the comprehensive bidding evaluation process of each country, our equipment is evaluated as meeting the high performance and quality standards required, additionally confirmed as a sustainable print service provider based on our strong financial ground. As a result, we have led to these multiple large-scale orders.

3. Impact on Business Performance

Sales of the above banknote and security printing equipment is scheduled to be recorded over a certain period of time, mainly due to the progress of work. The portion of revenue recognized in the current fiscal year has already been factored into the current fiscal year forecast.
