2. Reason for revision to dividend forecasts

The management of the Company has been positioning the distribution of profits to our shareholders through increased corporate value in the mid-to long-term as one of the most important management issues and makes it a basic policy to ensure a steady stream of dividends while considering future business investment, enhancement of shareholder's equity, and other factors, with an aim at a consolidated dividend payout ratio of about 35%.

Based on the fact that the profit attributable to owners of the parent for its consolidated financial result for the six months ended September 30, 2025 exceeded the initial forecast and the revision of its consolidated financial forecasts for fiscal year ending March 31, 2026 (from April 1, 2025 to March 31, 2026) that we announced today, we revise the forecast for the fiscal-year end dividend payout to 27.00 per-share and revise for the forecast for the annual dividend payout to 47.00 per-share.
