(Updated) Notice Regarding Improper Conduct in Quality Inspections of Certain Products in Linear Business

As announced in “Notice Regarding Improper Conduct in Quality Inspections of Certain Products in Linear Business” dated November 11, 2024, the measured values in some of the quality inspection items for ball screws manufactured in Koriyama plant for Linear Business had been falsified (hereinafter referred to as “the Improper Conduct”). We sincerely apologize once again for the significant inconvenience and concern the Improper Conduct may cause to our customers, shareholders, and all other stakeholders.

Regarding the investigation into this matter, a Special Investigation Committee composed of external attorneys was established on October 16, 2024. We expected to receive the investigation report from the Committee around January 2025. However, we have recently been informed by the Special Investigation Committee that the submission of the report will be delayed due to an additional review of the other plants, while investigation is progressing as planned. Consequently, the receipt of the report will be in mid-February. The results of the investigation will be announced as soon as the investigation report by the Special Investigation Committee is received.

The Company is currently assessing the impact of this matter on our business performance. Should any material information arise that requires disclosure, we will promptly make an announcement.
