Notice Regarding the Acquisition of Shares of CADENAS Technologies AG (to Make it a Subsidiary)

We have concluded a contract for the acquisition of all shares of CADENAS Technologies AG (the "CADENAS") and completed the transaction as of May 20, 2025, as detailed below.

1. Reason for acquisition of shares

Keyence Group aims to contribute to society by creating high-value-added products in the global manufacturing industry, striving for sustainable growth and high profitability. We have been committed to creating and providing products that evolve the manufacturing field and solve its challenges.

In recent years, we have been challenging ourselves to utilize digital technology by expanding new products in the software business and developing internet business, aiming to create and provide high value in the online space. As part of this effort, we have been considering M&A opportunities.

CADENAS operates a platform business that connects approximately 10 million users with numerous parts suppliers in the essential field of 3D CAD for future manufacturing. Their technology is crucial for the digitalization of design and simulation in factory automation (FA).

By acquiring CADENAS, our group will realize the creation of new added value from both "digital" and "real" perspectives, contributing to the productivity improvement of the global manufacturing industry.
