Macnica Holdings, Inc.
(Code Number: 3132 Tokyo Stock Exchange Prime Market)

Macnica Investor Day 2026 on December 2
– Global Semiconductor Growth Strategy and Emerging Opportunities in the AI-Driven Cybersecurity Market –

Macnica Holdings, Inc. (Headquarters: Yokohama, Kanagawa; Representative Director and President: Kazumasa Hara; hereinafter referred to as “Macnica HD”) is pleased to announce that it will hold Investor Day 2026 via live webcast to discuss key topics of interest to investors.

The event will focus on business areas that are expected to drive our medium- to long-term growth and will provide an overview of our future growth strategies and business opportunities. In the semiconductor business, we will highlight our overseas semiconductor business, which has achieved remarkable growth in recent years. We will review its expansion to date and outline our future growth strategy. We will also discuss the growing business opportunities related to AI data centers in Taiwan. In the cybersecurity business, we will discuss how AI is reshaping the market. This includes the increasing sophistication of cyberattacks, the growing range of assets and environments requiring cybersecurity protection, and emerging demand for solutions that enable companies to use AI securely. We will also explain Macnica’s position in this evolving market and the medium- to long-term growth opportunities ahead.

The event is open to institutional investors, analysts, and individual investors. The Q&A session will address questions submitted in advance. Participants may also submit questions during the live webcast. We look forward to your participation.
