PT Integrasi Jaringan Ekosistem Inaugural Samurai Bond Offering

Daiwa Securities Co. Ltd., a subsidiary of Daiwa Securities Group Inc., hereby announces that it has acted as sole arranger for the inaugural Samurai Bond offering by PT Integrasi Jaringan Ekosistem (“WEAVE”), an Indonesian telecommunications infrastructure company. WEAVE issued its first and second Series Japanese Yen Bonds for Japanese Resident Qualified Institutional Investors Only (the “Bonds”).

Founded in 2018, WEAVE is an Indonesian telecommunications infrastructure company and a subsidiary of PT Solusi Sinergi Digital Tbk, a company listed on the Indonesia Stock Exchange. Leveraging fiber-optic networks along railway corridors across Java, WEAVE provides affordable fiber-to-the-home (FTTH) broadband services and contributes to the expansion of digital access and fixed broadband infrastructure throughout Indonesia. The company aims to help bridge the digital divide and support regional economic development by offering high-speed internet connectivity at accessible prices.

In 2025, NTT East Group acquired a 49% stake in WEAVE through NTT e-Asia Corporation. Through operational support, maintenance expertise, and technical training programs, NTT e-Asia Corporation is supporting the strengthening of WEAVE’s business foundation and future growth.

Proceeds from the Bonds are expected to be used for capital expenditures related to the development, expansion and maintenance of FTTH networks and associated telecommunications infrastructure, working capital requirements, refinancing or repayment of existing indebtedness, and other general corporate purposes.

This transaction highlights the role that Japanese institutional capital can play in supporting infrastructure development and digital inclusion in Indonesia. It also demonstrates the role of the Japanese capital markets in supporting international infrastructure investment and fostering closer financial ties between Japan and Indonesia.
